Dear Colleagues:

We hope you enjoyed your summer and are looking forward to the start of the new academic year. We would like to give a special welcome to all new faculty. Please take a moment to check with any new women faculty in your department to be sure they know about our office and that they request to be added to our mailing list.

Rebecca Starr has added a new column, starting with this edition of the newsletter, on promotions. Promotion of women faculty is a clear priority of our office. We hope you find it useful. As always, we welcome your input.

Sincerely,

Nancy J. Tarbell, MD

IN COMMEMORATION of Women in Medicine Month, the Office of Women’s Careers is sponsoring our annual lecture,

Women in Science: Shattering the Glass Ceiling?

featuring Dr. Elga Wasserman, scientist, lawyer, and author of The Door in the Dream who will discuss possible causes for the imbalance of women at the top and steps that institutions can take in order to remove the barriers. This program will be moderated by Marjorie Clapprood, former MA State Representative and WRKO talk show host, and co-chair for the Women’s Leadership Fund for the Democratic National Committee.

Sept 15  12 to 1:30 pm in the Ether Dome
Bulfinch Building, 4th floor

Erin Tracy, MD, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, was elected to serve as a Co-Chair for the American Medical Association WPC Women’s Caucus which meets at the AMA Annual and Interim meetings.

Elaine Woo, MD, Internal Medicine, has been elected to the MGPO Managed Care Contracting Committee.
Q: How do you get promoted after being at HMS for 10 years or longer?

A: By the longer service criteria.

Steps for faculty to follow to get promoted by the longer service criteria:

1. Make sure you fit the criteria
   - Ten (10) years or more of meritorious service with evidence of substantial contributions and growth as a teacher and clinician. The major elements of these criteria are teaching and education, clinical practice and care, citizenship, and leadership, and evidence of substantial contribution and growth in the above areas is very important.
   - There is no requirement for written scholarship.
   - See purple book: http://www.hms.harvard.edu/fa/handbook/purplebook

2. Complete your CV using the HMS format
   - If help is needed, schedule an appointment with Dr. Mary Clark during her scheduled monthly visits to MGH, by calling the OWC office at 724-5229.

3. Consult with those above you
   - Talk to your Unit Chief/Division Chief/Supervisor about your readiness to be recommended for a promotion.
   - Give him/her:
     - your current CV
     - a list of 6 or 7 names of people who could write you a letter of reference from colleagues who are most familiar with your contributions in the clinical, teaching, and administrative areas.

4. At this point, each hospital department has its own internal procedures for
   - Requesting the letters of recommendation
   - Submitting the packet to the Department Chair
   - Submitting the packet to the Internal Review Committee
   - Submitting the packet to a review team of a Joint Executive Committee, if necessary

5. Once all the approvals are granted, the Department Chair writes the formal letter for nomination of promotion to Assistant Professor and must fill out and sign the HMS form called “Form for Initiation of First Term Appointments and Promotions.”

6. All documents are put together in a packet and submitted to the HMS Office for Faculty Services. The office will then distribute the packet to the members of the Longer Service promotions committee. The committee, which meets every other month, deliberates and then renders a recommendation to the Dean.

7. Dean makes a final recommendation and transmits it to the President and Provost of Harvard University. They give final approval.

Note that this entire process, from start to finish, can take up to 4 to 6 months to complete.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

1. 2003 AAMC Annual Meeting

   November 7 to 12, 2003 in Washington, D.C.

   For more information:
   http://www.aamc.org/meetings/annual/2003/start.htm

2. Leadership Development for Physicians and Scientists

   Conference Center at Harvard Medical, Boston, Massachusetts

   April 1, 2 and 3, 2004

   An extremely well received course, this is the second year in a row that this course is being offered for HMS faculty who are in the early stages of leadership and have responsibility in a grant program, laboratory, course, or clinical unit. This is not for chairs of departments or divisions. The goal of the program is to build on their knowledge base and skills to enhance their professional development as administrative leaders in academic medicine. Participants will acquire skills in institutional organization, health care economics, legal and regulatory issues, and the full spectrum of communication skills. Women and minorities are particularly encouraged to apply. Course limited to 50 participants. The course is being organized in a collaborative effort between our office and other HMS affiliated institutions. Information about the application procedure will be forthcoming.

OF NOTE

1. Women in Medicine Program at national office hires new leader

   AAMC hires new AVP for faculty development and leadership programs

   Diane Magrane, MD, will join the AAMC staff as Associate Vice President for Faculty Development and Leadership Programs. Dr. Magrane is currently professor of obstetrics and gynecology and associate dean for medical education at the University of Vermont College of Medicine.

   She served as president of the Association for Professors of Gynecology and Obstetrics in 2002, is a founding member of the Alliance for Clinical Education, and has also served as a survey team member for the Liaison Committee for Medical Education.

   In her new position at the AAMC, Dr. Magrane will be responsible for the Women in Medicine Program, the Faculty Affairs Forum, executive development programs in the Division of Medical School Affairs, and will lead an association-wide effort to enhance and expand faculty and leadership development offerings.

   Dr. Magrane will join the AAMC upon completion of a six-month sabbatical.

2. Grant Gender Parity

   Dr. Tayyaba Hasan presented a preliminary report on the grant gender parity study for The Massachusetts General Hospital that was conducted. This was part of a broader Harvard-wide study being conducted by the Joint Committee on the Status of Women, Harvard Medical School. Here are the main findings:

   - Women have the same rate of success in obtaining NIH funding as men.
   - Women are awarded the same or a slightly higher percentage of the requested funds.
   - In absolute amounts, women receive fewer dollars, which is most likely attributable to lower requests.
   - Only about 21 percent of the total grant applications are submitted by women.

   This study will continue and is expected to help us understand the reasons for the differences in funding levels and how to decrease this differential.

Do not despair – Look how women were perceived in 1955!

Read this article that appeared in a newspaper 48 years ago, in 1955. Yes, we do have obstacles but look how far we have progressed since then. Maybe in another 48 years our daughters will look back on how we are today with the same disbelief.

The good wife’s guide

- Have dinner ready. Plan ahead, even the right before, to have a delicious meal ready, on time for his return. This is a way of letting him know that you have been thinking about him and are concerned about his needs. Most men are hungry when they come home and the prospect of a good meal (especially his favorite dish) is part of the warm welcome needed.
- Prepare yourself. Take 15 minutes to rest so you’ll be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your makeup, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh-looking. He has just been with a lot of work-wear they can be.
- Be a little gay and a little more interesting for him. His boring day may need a lift and one of your duties is to provide it.
- Clear away the clutter. Make one last trip through the main part of the house just before your husband arrives.

Fundraising is an increasingly important factor in getting your research projects funded. With that in mind, we are dedicating a small portion of this newsletter to offering you tips on how to be a better fundraiser.

1st Tip

Translate the funds you’re seeking into terms your audience can relate to.

Your project will have more appeal if you make it personal for the potential donor. To the lay person medical research isn’t about publishing and petrie dishes, it’s about the promise of curing someone engulfed by a disease or easing their pain. There’s an old saying in fund raising that “people give to people, not to projects.” Strive to translate what your needs are for funding into what your project will do for people and what it means to you personally to be doing this work.

Of course, if you have any questions about fundraising, please don’t hesitate to contact Amy Fontanella in the Development Office at 4-6426.
